MISS GREGORY'S TALKS TO YOUNG WOMEN. Number Twenty-five

Every week in my office a con-ference is held; this meeting is not for the purpose of studying economics, at these talks the main subject under discussion is, where and how can we better the conditions surrounding our operators: \ present methods are canvassed. suggestions made, and noted, all being thoroughly threshed out. It is very hard to find any particular branch of the system which can be improved; but sometimes, something is found in which a change or modification would benefit our working force; and itis immediately adopted. I doubt if in the cutire country there is a company that so con-scientiously strives to surround their employes with modern ideal conditions as the C. & P. Telephone Co. I am not violating any confifidence when I say that the com pany have just purchased two large houses, conveniently located which when altered will be used to house as many operators as can be comfortably accommodated; no thought of profit will be considered for a moment. It will effect a well-worth while saving for our girls, that is all we ask Operators of the C. & P.
